APRIL 2022

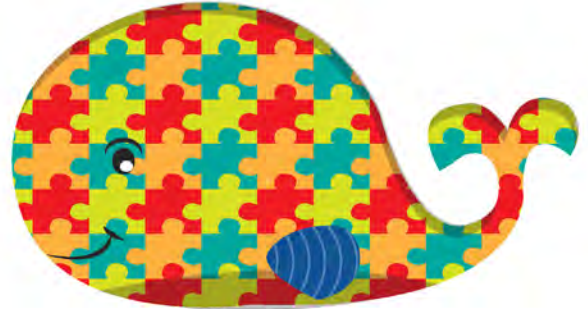

It's OK to Be Different

April is National Autism Awareness Month, and whether you have an autistic child in your family or you know a family with an autistic child, basic parenting techniques are effective with all children.

Be accepting of your child, idiosyncracies and all. Instead of focusing on how your child is different from other children, practice acceptance. Marvel at your kid's special quirks and celebrate his successes. Your child will thrive when he feels he is loved unconditionally.

Endless Discoveries believes development of the "whole child" includes art, music, dramatic play, social awareness, cooking, outside play, language and math. Our schools are much more than basic daycare. Endless Discoveries teachers provide a theme-based curriculum that is tailored to combine each subject and draws the attention of every child, regardless of his cognitive level.

Week of the Young Child

We are excited for another fun-filled Week of the Young Child from April 4 to April 8. We will be focusing on hands-on activities encouraging movements and healthy lifestyles through music and art.

International Children's Book Day

April 1 is International Children's Book Day. Children can bring their favorite book that day, or they can dress up as their favorite character.

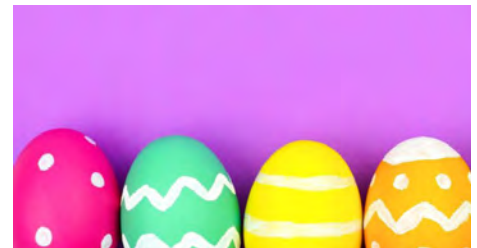

Classroom Spotlight

Our Classroom Spotlight for the month is Preschool One.

Ms. Phyllis has been with Endless Discoveries for ten years, and she has been in the same age group! She always keeps a smile on her face, and she loves her children. They never get bored in her classroom because they are always trying something new. When you walk into Preschool One, you see learning, laughter, and everyone enjoying their day at school.

Ms. Phyllis makes sure her children are ready to succeed to the next age group. We are so excited to have Preschool One as the Spotlight Classroom for April!

Easter Egg Hunt

We will have an Easter Egg Hunt on Thursday, April 14. Egg hunts are proof that your children can find things when they really need to!
