GLEN ROSE

JUNE 2025

STELLAR Encounters

We're excited for summer to begin because we have lots of fun activities planned!

We will go to Granbury Pool every week and the Glen Rose Library for some special shows. Other field trips this year include Fossil Rim Wildlife Center where we will see giraffes, cheetahs, gazelles, emus, zebras, and many more exotic animals, and Dinosaur Valley State Park.

Brain STEM, Jurassic Snow Cones, Kiddie Yoga and a petting zoo will join us for in-house field trips.

Lots of other great activities are on the schedule such as baking bread, making rice krispie treats and sundaes, and designing our own 4th of July shirts that we can wear in our parade on July 3.

Our grand finale will be a spectacular End of Summer Party on August 8.

For more information, check with Tiffany.

Teacher of the Month

We would love for you to meet Ms. Maritza. She is one of our floaters, and she loves to spend her time with all ages. Ms. Maritza loves to read the children books, help them draw, and watch as they grow and learn.

Stay Hydrated this Summer!

National Hydration Day is June 23, serving as a timely reminder—especially during the hot summer months—to emphasize the importance of staying hydrated.

Children are particularly susceptible to dehydration due to their higher body water content and active lifestyles. Proper hydration supports essential bodily functions, including temperature regulation, digestion, and cognitive performance. Dehydration in kids can lead to symptoms like fatigue, headaches, and dizziness.

To make hydration appealing for kids, let them create their own personalized water bottles with markers or stickers. You can also try setting timers for regular water sips or sticker charts to track daily water intake. Adding fruits to water or ice cubes makes drinking water more fun.
