GLEN ROSE

JUNE 2026

Summer SUPER- STARS

We're excited for summer to begin because we have lots of fun activities planned!

We will go to Granbury Pool every Wednesday and the Glen Rose Library for some special shows. Other field trips this year include Dinosaur Valley State Park and Fossil Rim Wildlife Center, where we will see giraffes, cheetahs, gazelles, emus, zebras, and many more exotic animals.

Brain STEM, Sweetie's Ice Cream Truck, Cosmic Kids Yoga and a petting zoo will join us for in-house field trips.

Lots of other great activities are on the schedule such as making ice cream sundaes and rice krispie treats, and a patriotic parade on July 2.

Stay Hydrated this Summer!

National Hydration Day is June 23, serving as a timely reminder – especially during the hot summer months – to emphasize the importance of staying hydrated.

Children are particularly susceptible to dehydration due to their higher body water content and active lifestyles. Proper hydration supports essential bodily functions, including temperature regulation, digestion, and cognitive performance. Dehydration in kids can lead to symptoms like fatigue, headaches, and dizziness.

To make hydration appealing for kids, let them create their own personalized water bottles with markers or stickers. You can also try setting timers for regular water sips or sticker charts to track daily water intake. Adding fruits to water or ice cubes makes drinking water more fun.
